

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A package structure to be mounted on an external printed circuit board includes a package board that is mounted with an exoergic circuit element, and a heat
5 sink that radiates heat from the exoergic circuit element, wherein first pressure for connecting the heat sink to the package board is separated from second pressure for compressing the package board against the printed circuit board.